Russian opposition leader may have been poisoned in prison, doctor says

Alexei Navalny was said to have developed skin lesions and severe rash while jailed.

Russian opposition leader Alexei Navalny was hospitalized on Sunday after suffering an acute allergic reaction which one doctor said may have been the result of him being poisoned with an unknown chemical substance.

Navalny, 43, was rushed to hospital on Sunday morning from jail where he is serving a 30-day sentence for violating tough protest laws, a day after police in Moscow detained over 1,000 people for an illegal demonstration which Navalny called for.

His spokeswoman Kira Yarmysh said Navalny had signs of an acute allergy with "severe swelling of the face and skin redness."

Doctors at the hospital treating him have yet to publicly disclose their diagnosis and the precise cause of his symptoms remains unknown.

But one doctor who has treated him in the past and was able to briefly speak to him and look at him through the crack of a door on Sunday said she could not rule out that he had been poisoned.

"We cannot rule out that toxic damage to the skin and mucous membranes by an unknown chemical substance was inflicted with the help of a 'third party,'" Anastasia Vasilyeva, the doctor, wrote on Facebook.

Vasilyeva, who said

Navalny had a rash on his upper body, skin lesions, and discharge from his eye, called for samples of Navalny's bed sheets, skin and hair to be tested for chemicals.

She said she found the fact that she had not been allowed to examine him properly suspicious.

The Moscow hospital where Navalny's spokeswoman said he was being treated could not be reached for comment.

Separately, Navalny's

lawyer, Olga Mikhailova, wrote on Facebook on Sunday evening that doctors did not know what was wrong with her client, but that she deemed his symptoms strange given that he had never suffered from allergies in the past.

Navalny suffered a serious chemical burn to his right eye in 2017 as a result of an assault. Doctors were able to restore his sight and save the eye.

He was jailed on Wednesday this week for 30 days for calling for Saturday's unauthorized march to protest against the exclusion of several opposition candidates from a local election later this year.

While Navalny was behind bars, police rounded up more than 1,000 people in the Russian capital at the rally on Saturday in one of the biggest crackdowns in recent years against the opposition, drawing international criticism.

A spokeswoman for the U.S. embassy in Moscow, Andrea Kalan, wrote on Twitter on Sunday that the large number of detentions in Moscow and the "use of disproportionate police force undermine rights of citizens to participate in the democratic process."

OPPOSITION ACTIVIST DETAINED

In a separate incident on Sunday, Russian activist Dmitry Gudkov, who was among the opposition candidates barred from running in local elections later this year, said he had been detained and taken to a Moscow police station.

1,000

Police rounded up more than 1,000 people in the Russian capital at the rally on Saturday in one of the biggest crackdowns in recent years.

The reason for Gudkov's detention was not immediately clear, his spokesman Alexei Obukhov told Reuters.

Russia's Interior Ministry did not respond to a request for comment on Navalny and Gudkov's detention.

Police on Sunday night detained about 10 people, including journalists, who had gathered in front of the hospital where Navalny was being treated.

Navalny, a lawyer and anti-corruption activist, has served several stints in jail in recent years for organizing anti-government demonstrations.

The European Court of Human Rights last year ruled Russia's arrests and detention of Navalny in 2012 and 2014 were politically motivated and breached his human rights, a ruling Moscow called questionable. REUTERS

Vietnam holds 380 Chinese in online gambling bust

2 Police in Vietnam on Sunday detained more than 380 Chinese people accused of running the country's largest-ever underground online gambling ring, the government said. Gambling is illegal in Vietnam in most cases, though foreigners are allowed to gamble at local casinos. Last year, Vietnam said it would allow some local citizens to gamble at selected casinos on a trial basis. The individuals, aged between 18 and 24, were arrested while operating online gambling websites from more than 100 rooms at a tightly-guarded urban area in Haiphong City, 100 kilometers east of Hanoi, the ministry said in a statement on its website. It said the ring hosted online platforms for Chinese gamblers to bet on sports games and lotteries, with the amount of transactions estimated at $436.14 million. REUTERS

PR justice sec says she doesn't want to be governor

3 The woman in line to be the governor of Puerto Rico after Ricardo Rossello steps down next week said Sunday she doesn't want the job running the U.S. territory. Rossello said last week he will step down on Aug. 2 in the face of mass street protests and public outrage over the release of profane chat messages and embezzlement charges against two former administration officials. Secretary of Justice Wanda Vazquez is next in line to succeed Rossello as governor because Puerto Rico currently has no secretary of state, who would have precedence. But on Sunday she said she had no interest in taking the reins. "I hope the governor identifies and submits a candidate for secretary of state before Aug. 2 and I have told him as much," Vazquez tweeted. Protesters who forced Rossello from office had opposed Vazquez, saying she is too close to the disgraced governor. REUTERS

Did You Know?

Ridesharing platforms such as Uber and Lyft provide insurance coverage to both passengers and driver-partners who are injured in auto accidents. If you are a passenger or driver-partner injured during an Uber or Lyft ride, you may be eligible to receive compensation for your injuries through Uber/Lyft's insurance. These policies oftentimes provide for up to $1 million in benefits, and may also cover your medical expenses even if you do not have health insurance.

The type and amount of insurance coverage provided to driver-partners depends on three scenarios:

1. Logged Into the App and Waiting for a Request:
the platform's insurance will typically provide only liability coverage to its drivers should they cause an accident.

2. In Route To An Accepted Rider or During A Trip:
the platform's insurance policy will typically provide both Uninsured (UM) and Underinsured (UIM) benefits to drivers who are injured in an accident.

3. Driving For Personal Use / Not Logged Into the App:
the platform's insurance will not provide any coverage.

If you or a loved one has been injured in an auto accident involving Uber or Lyft, call the experienced attorneys at Fodera & Long, P.C. at 215-569-1212 to explore whether you are eligible to recover full compensation for your injuries.

Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee Rep. Jerry Nadler.

No deadline for Trump impeachment, Nadler says

A panel chaired by the Dem continues to review the Mueller report.

A senior lawmaker in the House of Representatives on Sunday rejected the notion that Democrats must decide whether to pursue the impeachment of Republican President Donald Trump before the 2020 election season shifts into high gear.

With some Democrats warning that the window for impeachment was closing with the approach of elections, House Judiciary Committee Chairman Jerrold Nadler was asked if he thought there was a deadline.

"No, I don't," Nadler told CNN's "State of the Union." His committee is charged with initiating any impeachment proceedings.

Democratic lawmakers will want to focus on their own campaigns to keep the party's control of the House in the November 2020 elections, and months-long impeachment proceedings would risk interfering with those efforts.

An investigation by Special Counsel Robert Mueller found multiple contacts between Trump's campaign and Moscow, and several instances in which the president tried to impede Mueller's probe.

Nadler's panel is looking into Mueller's conclusions, as well as whether Trump's businesses are profiting from his presidency.

He said those issues will have an impact far beyond next year's election.

"We have to defend the Constitution against these kinds of unconstitutional and illegal deeds," Nadler told CNN. "And we have to make sure that a president who does that pays a penalty so that kind of conduct is not normalized and legalized in effect for the next president."

"So we have to do this, whatever time frame there is."

House Speaker Nancy Pelosi has tried to restrain Democrats from initiating the impeachment process against Trump without first ensuring public support.

U.S. Rep. Adam Schiff said it was important to show the American people enough evidence to make the case for Trump's impeachment "before we go down this path, because it's going to occupy a year of the nation's time."

"We have to make sure that a president who does that pays a penalty so that kind of conduct is not normalized and legalized in effect for the next president."

Rep. Jerrold Nadler

With the White House refusing to cooperate in many congressional investigations of Trump, Schiff told NBC's "Meet the Press" that obstructing Congress might itself become the focus of impeachment efforts.

The Judiciary panel moved a step closer to impeachment on Friday when it asked a federal court for access to grand jury evidence from the Mueller probe.

The committee wants to review interactions between Trump campaign officials and Russian agents, and Trump's alleged efforts to direct former White House Counsel Don McGahn to remove Mueller. REUTERS

Rep. Elijah Cummings.

Trump rejects 'racism' charge, fires back at Cummings

Mick Mulvaney told the Sunday talk shows that the president's comments are more "hyperbole."

President Donald Trump on Sunday said disparaging comments he made about a prominent African-American lawmaker and his Baltimore district were not racist and, without citing any evidence for his claim, he called the congressman a racist.

"If racist Elijah Cummings would focus more of his energy on helping the good people of his district, and Baltimore itself, perhaps progress could be made in fixing the mess that he has helped to create over many years of incompetent leadership," Trump said in a tweet.

Trump had attacked Cummings, a Democrat in the House of Representatives who has long been a champion for civil rights, in a series of tweets on Saturday, after the lawmaker criticized conditions at U.S. facilities housing migrants along the Mexico border.

In a post on Twitter, Trump called Cummings' district "disgusting, rat and rodent infested."

"No human being would want to live there," he said.

The tweets drew pointed responses from Democrats, who said the comments were racist, a charge Trump denied on Sunday.

"There is nothing racist in stating plainly what most people already know, that Elijah Cummings has done a terrible job for the people of his district, and of Baltimore itself," he said in a series of posts on Twitter.

"If racist Elijah Cummings would focus more of his energy on helping the good people of his district, and Baltimore itself, perhaps progress could be made."

President Trump

Cummings' office did not immediately respond to a request for comment on Trump's latest tweets. In a tweet on Saturday responding to Trump's initial barrage, Cummings said:

"Mr. President, I go home to my district daily. Each morning, I wake up, and I go and fight for my neighbors. It is my constitutional duty to conduct oversight of the Executive Branch. But, it is my moral duty to fight for my constituents."

Cummings is the chairman of the House Oversight Committee, which voted 23-16 along party lines on Thursday to issue subpoenas to White House officials, including Trump's daughter Ivanka Trump and son-in-law Jared Kushner as part of a probe into possible violations of government record-keeping laws.

In an interview on CBS's "Face the Nation," acting White House chief of staff Mick Mulvaney said on Sunday that he understood why Trump's comments could be perceived as racist but he said the president was speaking hyperbolically.

Trump's remarks echoed a similar attack he made in January 2017 against another black lawmaker and icon of the civil rights movement, John Lewis. He also recently told four women lawmakers of color to "go back and help fix the totally broken and crime infested places from which they came." REUTERS

Italian police investigate picture of blindfolded US murder suspect

Italian police have launched an investigation into a picture showing a U.S. student suspected of killing an officer in a blindfold and handcuffs soon after the arrest.

Two American teens were arrested on Saturday in Rome, accused of the stabbing murder of Italian military police officer Mario Cerciello Rega.

Judicial sources said the students are Finnegan Lee Elder, 19, and Gabriel Christian Natale-Hjorth, 18, both from San Francisco. They face charges of murder and attempted extortion.

The picture of Natale-Hjorth with head bowed and eyes covered by a blue blindfold at a police station started circulating on the internet on Saturday and was published by several Italian newspapers on Sunday.

Police did not deny the authenticity of the picture.

"The general command of the (military police) Carabinieri disassociate themselves from the release and disclosure of photos of persons arrested for the murder of [Officer] Mario Cerciello Rega," they said in a statement late on Saturday.

"The Carabinieri command in Rome is carrying out with extreme urgency an investigation to identify who is responsible."

Human rights associations condemned the picture as disturbing, but Italy's Interior Minister Matteo Salvini dismissed the controversy.

"To those who complain about the blindfolding of a person arrested, I remind them that the only victim to cry for is a ... Carabinieri ... who died while doing his job, killed by people who, if guilty, deserve spending their life [sic] in prison," Salvini said on Twitter. REUTERS

Ratcliffe tapped as new spy chief, to replace Coats

The move comes as Dan Coats will step down Aug. 15.

President Donald Trump said on Sunday he would nominate Rep. John Ratcliffe, a Republican who strongly defended him at a recent congressional hearing, to replace Dan Coats as the U.S. spy chief.

Coats, the current U.S. director of national intelligence who has clashed with Trump over assessments involving Russia, Iran and North Korea, will step down on Aug. 15, the president said on Twitter.

added, thanking Coats "for his great service to our Country" and saying that an acting director will be named shortly.

The post of director of national intelligence, created after the Sept. 11, 2001 attacks on the United States, oversees the 17 U.S. civilian and military intelligence agencies, including the Central Intelligence Agency.

Ratcliffe, a member of the House of Representatives Intelligence and Judiciary committees, defended Trump during former Special Counsel Robert Mueller's testimony on Wednesday about his two-year investigation of Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election and possible obstruction of justice.

Ratcliffe also accused Mueller of exceeding his authority in the report's extensive discussion of potential obstruction of justice by Trump after the special counsel decided not to draw a conclusion on whether Trump committed a crime.

The congressman agreed that Trump was not above the law, but said the president should not be "below the law," either.

Ratcliffe has served in Congress since 2015.

Before coming to Congress, he served as mayor for Heath, Texas, near Dallas, and as a U.S. attorney. His congressional biography highlights his role as a prosecutor of terrorism cases and says he "arrested 300 illegal aliens in a single day." REUTERS

"I am pleased to announce that highly respected Congressman John Ratcliffe of Texas will be nominated by me to be the Director of National Intelligence."

'Lion King' wins box office, 'Once Upon a Time' has strong opening Disney's "The Lion King" might still rule everything the light touches, but Quentin Tarantino's "Once Upon a Time in Hollywood" certainly held its own this weekend at the domestic box office.

In a win for original content, Tarantino's R-rated ode to Hollywood's golden age opened with $40 million from 3,659 North American theaters, a career best for the filmmaker. The movie also scored an opening day record for Tarantino, amassing $16.8 million on Friday.

"Once Upon a Time in Hollywood" came in second place behind "The Lion King," which collected another $75.5 million, down roughly 60 percent from its inaugural outing. Jon Favreau's remake of the animated classic has generated $350 million at the domestic box office, making it the fourth-biggest release of the year after 10 days in theaters. Overseas, "The Lion King" has earned $612 million for a worldwide bounty of $963 million.

"The Lion King" continues to strengthen Disney's reign over the domestic box office. The studio now owns the five highest-grossing movies of the year with "Avengers: Endgame" ($856 million), "Captain Marvel" ($426 million), "Toy Story 4" ($395 million), "The Lion King" ($350 million) and "Aladdin" ($345 million).

Heading into the weekend, Sony tempered expectations for "Once Upon a Time in Hollywood," estimating a $30 million start given the midsummer debut for a film that isn't based on existing IP or part of a franchise. The movie has the benefit of positive reviews — and the rare chance to see Leonardo DiCaprio and Brad Pitt share the big screen — but it will need to rely on word of mouth to continue drawing crowds throughout popcorn season. It received a "B" CinemaScore from audiences, compared to the "A-" score for his most recent hits, 2009's "Inglorious Basterds" and 2012's "Django Unchained."

"Inglorious Basterds," which also starred Pitt and debuted during summer, launched with $38 million and ended its box office run with $120 million in North America and $321 million worldwide. "Django Unchained," Tarantino's biggest box office success to date, bowed with $30 million over the holidays, and went on to earn $425 million globally. REUTERS

Think the heat wave was bad? Climate already hitting key tipping points

Record-breaking temps baked most of Europe this past week.

"Shall we all just kill ourselves?"

It was an odd title for a comedy night, but British stand-up Carl Donnelly turned out to have chosen an environmental theme with impeccable timing.

With temperature records tumbling daily in last week's European heat wave, a crowd in an East London bar seemed uniquely primed to appreciate his darkly humorous riffs on the existential threat posed by climate change.

That foretaste of a radically hotter world underscored what is at stake in a decisive phase of talks to implement the 2015 Paris Agreement, a collective shot at avoiding climate breakdown.

With study after study showing climate impacts from extreme weather to polar melt and sea-level rise outstripping initial forecasts, negotiators have a fast-closing window to try to turn the aspirations agreed in Paris into meaningful outcomes.

"There's so much on the line in the next 18 months or so," said Sue Reid, vice-president of climate and energy at Ceres, a U.S. nonprofit group that works to steer companies and investors onto a more sustainable path.

"This is a crucial period of time both for public officials and the private sector to really reverse the curve on emissions," Reid told Reuters.

In October, the U.N.-backed Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) warned emissions must start falling next year at the latest to stand a chance of achieving the deal's goal of holding the global temperature rise to 1.5 degrees Celsius.

"This is a crucial period of time both for public officials and the private sector to really reverse the curve on emissions."

temperatures more than three degrees higher, U.N. Secretary-General Antonio Guterres is working to wrest bigger commitments from governments ahead of a summit in New York in September.

Telling world leaders that failing to cut emissions would be "suicidal," the Portuguese diplomat wants to build momentum ahead of a fresh round of climate talks in Chile in December.

By the time Britain convenes a major follow-up summit in late 2020, plans are supposed to be underway — in theory at least — to almost halve global emissions over the next decade.

"In the next year and a half, we will witness an intensity of climate diplomacy not seen since the Paris Agreement was signed," said

Tessa Khan, an international climate change lawyer.

"REVOLUTION OR COLLAPSE"

As the diplomatic offensive intensifies, the latest scientific studies have offered negotiators scant comfort.

U.S. climatologist Michael Mann believes emissions need to fall even more drastically than the IPCC assumes, since the panel may be underestimating how far temperatures have already risen since pre-industrial times.

"Our work on this indicates that we might have as much as 40 percent less carbon left to burn than IPCC implies, if we are to avert the 1.5 Celsius warming limit," said Mann, director of the Earth System Science Center at Penn State University. REUTERS

Aries Try not to get bogged down in other people's dilemmas. Do something you've never done before. Look for ways to improve your health and appearance without being drastic.

Taurus You may feel the need to make an impulsive move, but think twice before you take action. Someone close to you will disagree with your plans, causing a rift in your relationship.

Gemini When it comes to emotional matters, you'll differ from someone who may stand between you and the success you are trying to achieve. Get the go-ahead before you proceed.

Cancer Express your feelings and accept the response you receive. The talks you engage in may not be what you expect, but, in hindsight, you'll realize the benefit of the information you collect.

Leo An unexpected offer will not be what you think it is. Ask questions and get the lowdown before you agree to something that may not be the way to go.

Virgo Look at the facts and take what you discover at face value. If someone overreacts, rely on what you know to restore peace. Your stability and insight will encourage positive results.

Libra Change begins within. Start by updating your image and projecting a positive attitude. Joint ventures should be avoided, and impulsive purchases should not be made.

Scorpio Getting along with peers won't be easy, and letting stress build could be a health hazard. You need a diversion. Focus on what you enjoy. Gravitate to the positive, not to the negative.

Sagittarius Take an aggressive approach to your responsibilities. Taking care of personal business will ease your mind and help you see situations clearly. Don't spend money on unrealistic products.

Capricorn A shift in attitude regarding a certain relationship will help you eliminate some of the drama or negativity you've experienced. Let go of the past and embrace the future.

Aquarius If you desire change, begin on your own doorstep. Evaluate what you've accomplished and what you want to do next. Leave nothing to chance, and plan your actions and execute them flawlessly.

Pisces A creative approach to the way you deal with younger and older people in your life will improve your relationships. Participate in events that include people of all ages. EUGENIA LAST

Looking for some fun and unique things to do in Philly this week? We've got you covered.

Wands & Whiskey

Art in the Industry is hosting this unique event filled with magic, tasty libations and intriguing art at Cherry Street Pier this Tuesday. Philadelphians can peruse a dark-alley art market featuring 30 local artists showcasing their unique crafts while also enjoying live music and complimentary bottled spirits. The evening will also feature an exciting competition, the Tender's Cup, a competitive cocktail contest focusing on taste and skill. Wands & Whiskey partnered up with PAWS to host a raffle-fundraiser, and adorable and adoptable pups will also be present at the event. According to the release, each ticket includes competition cocktail samples, beer samples, liquor samples and voting privileges for the Tender's Cup, as well as a T-shirt, tote bag, sunglasses and cauldrons.

Thomas Rhett. GETTY

July 30, 7-10 p.m., Cherry Street Pier, 121 N. Christopher Columbus Blvd., $35, artsintheindustry.com/tickets

Thomas Rhett

The country megastar is coming to the City of Brotherly Love area this week and will be hitting the stage at BB&T Pavilion for one night only. Rhett is wildly popular on the country music scene and has amassed a huge fan base throughout the years. Rhett will be performing some of his greatest hits this Thursday including "Look What God Gave Her," "Die a Happy Man," "Crash and Burn," "It Goes Like This," "Craving You," "Make Me Wanna" and more.

Aug. 1, 7 p.m., BB&T Pavilion, 1 Harbour Blvd., Camden, NJ, $45-$135, bbtpavilion.org

Summer Dinner in the Gardens

Experience the magic of the new Terrain Gardens while enjoying a delicious three-course meal inspired by the summer season at this exciting event. As a special bonus, all of the dishes will be expertly paired with cocktails by artisanal mixologist Aaron Gordon from 13th Street Cocktails. Dishes and appetizers include hush puppies with lobster and ramp; white gazpacho shooters with almonds and smoked trout; crab salad with grilled grapefruit and sunflower sprouts; hamachi crudo with yuzu and chili; rice noodles with pickled summer vegetables, Szechuan chili oil, jail island salmon and black coral; and a preserved-lemon bar with lavender gelato for dessert.

July 31, 6:30-8:30 p.m., Terrain Mills, 138 W. Lancaster Ave. #130, Devon, $115, shopterrain.com

"Making Herbal Tinctures and Extract"

Head to the Philadelphia Horticultural Society's pop-up beer garden in University City to join in on this interesting class where guests will learn how to extract benefits from natural herbs. According to the website, in this hands-on workshop guests will learn how to start a tincture (or extract); different herbs you can use for different ailments; how to bottle your tincture or extract; and how to use these extracts for health purposes. Philadelphians who attend will receive a take-home information sheet about the properties of 10 common herbs and one herbal tincture, bottled.

Guaranteed Fixed-Rate CD

Annual Percentage Yield for a 7-month term with new money deposits of at least $25,000.²

Enroll in a branch by August 30, 2019. Business owner? Ask about our business savings rates.

Offers available in CT, DE, FL, NJ, NY, and PA. Portfolio by Wells Fargo® customers are eligible to receive an additional bonus interest rate on these accounts.³

1. To qualify for the advertised APY, you must enroll your new or existing Platinum Savings account in this offer between 07/08/2019 and 08/30/2019 by speaking to a banker and requesting the special rate. Offer is subject to change at any time, without notice, and is available only to Platinum Savings customers in the following states: CT, DE, FL, NJ, NY, PA. In order to earn the Special Interest Rate of 1.98% (Special Rate), you must deposit $25,000 in new money to the enrolled savings account and maintain a minimum daily account balance of $25,000 throughout the promotional interest rate period. "New money" is money from sources outside of the customer's current relationship with Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. or its affiliates (which includes all deposit, brokerage and loan/credit accounts). The corresponding Annual Percentage Yield (APY) for this offer is 2.00%. The Special Rate will be applied to the enrolled savings account for a period of 12 months, starting on the date the account is enrolled in the offer. However, for any day during that 12 month period that the daily account balance is less than the $25,000, the enrolled account will not be eligible for the Special Rate and will instead earn the applicable Standard Interest Rate for a Platinum Savings account. As of 05/31/2019, the Standard Interest Rate and APY for a Platinum Savings account in CT, FL, NJ and NY with an account balance of $0.01 and above is 0.05% (0.05% APY); and for a Platinum Savings account in DE and PA with an account balance of $0.01 to $99,999.99 is 0.05% (0.05% APY) and with an account balance of $100,000 and above is 0.10% (0.10% APY). Each tier shown reflects the current minimum daily collected balance required to obtain the applicable APY. Interest is compounded daily and paid monthly. The amount of interest earned is based on the daily collected balances in the account. Upon the expiration of the 12 month promotional period, then-current Standard Interest Rates apply. Minimum to open a Platinum Savings account is $25. A monthly service fee of $12 applies in any month the account falls below a $3,500 minimum daily balance. Fees may reduce earnings. Interest rates are variable and subject to change without notice. Wells Fargo may limit the amount you deposit to a Platinum Savings account to an aggregate of $1 million. 2. Available in-branch only; you must speak with a banker to request the special rate. Annual Percentage Yield (APY) is effective for accounts opened between 07/08/2019 and 08/30/2019 and requires a minimum of $25,000 in new money brought to Wells Fargo. "New money" is money from sources outside of the customer's current relationship with Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. or its affiliates (which includes deposit, brokerage and loan/credit accounts). Public Funds and Wholesale accounts are not eligible for this offer. APY assumes interest remains on deposit until maturity. Interest is compounded daily. Payment of interest on CDs is based on term: For terms less than 12 months (365 days), interest may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or at maturity (the end of the term). For terms of 12 months or more, interest may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or annually. A penalty for early withdrawal will be imposed and could reduce earnings on this account. Special Rates are applicable to the initial term of the CD only. At maturity, the special rate CD will automatically renew for a term of 6 months, at the interest rate and APY in effect for CDs on renewal date not subject to a Special Rate, unless the Bank has notified you otherwise. 1., 2. Due to the new money requirement, new accounts may only be opened at your local branch and you must speak to a banker to request the special rate offers for both new and existing accounts. Wells Fargo reserves the right to modify or discontinue the offer at any time without notice. Minimum new money deposit requirement of at least $25,000 is for this offer only and cannot be transferred to another account to qualify for any other consumer deposit offer. If you wish to take advantage of another consumer deposit offer requiring a minimum new money deposit, you will be required to do so with another new money deposit as stated in the offer requirements and qualifications. Offer cannot be: • Combined with any other consumer deposit offer. • Reproduced, purchased, sold, transferred, or traded. 3. The Portfolio by Wells Fargo program has a $30 monthly service fee, which can be avoided when you have one of the following qualifying balances: $25,000 or more in qualifying linked bank deposit accounts (checking, savings, CDs, FDIC-insured IRAs) or $50,000 or more in any combination of qualifying linked banking, brokerage (available through Wells Fargo Advisors, LLC) and credit balances (including 10% of mortgage balances, certain mortgages not eligible). If the Portfolio by Wells Fargo relationship is terminated, the bonus interest rate on all eligible savings accounts, and discounts or fee waivers on other products and services, will discontinue and revert to the Bank's then-current applicable standard interest rate or fee. For bonus interest rates on time accounts, this change will occur upon renewal. If the Portfolio by Wells Fargo relationship is terminated, the remaining unlinked Wells Fargo Portfolio Checking or Wells Fargo Prime Checking account will be converted to another checking product or closed.

'Courage to Grow'

Rebelution frontman Eric Rachmany talks summer tour and what makes the band unique.

MOLLY GIVEN
Molly.Given@metro.us

When Rebelution first hit the music scene years ago the reggae movement was not exactly a huge hit. But as years have gone by and the genre has massively grown, so has Rebelution. The group amassed a loyal fan base almost right off the bat, and since the reggae scene has exploded, so has the band's sound. Instead of just the normal Marley-Esque beats with beachy lyrics, the California-based group mixes things up with inspirations from many different genres and makes it all their own. Rebelution's singer Eric Rachmany sat down with Metro to chat about what inspires the band, talk about their summer tour and dive into what makes the group incredibly unique.

The band has been together for 14 years— how do you try and keep the music fresh?

The first thing that comes to mind is touring. We play so many shows and we have to find a way to keep things fresh, so mixing up our setlist and finding new ways to engage the crowd. To be honest, when I first got started in this band I didn't know how to be a lead singer. I didn't know how to be an entertainer, I didn't even consider myself a great musician. So every year I feel like we get a little bit better and we learn a little bit more about ourselves and how to be better entertainers and better musicians. I think the fact that we have to get out on the road and perform in front of other people kind of forces us to find different ways to engage the crowd each summer and really just portray the music in a different way.

What do you hope audiences take away from your music?

I think lyrically our message is encouragement and motivation. I want people to listen to the music and then go out and do something great, I want them to feel inspired. We get a lot of people that come to us and say that our music got them through a tough time—that's the best compliment that I could ever receive. It's really our goal lyrically. But musically, we really are reggae-inspired. When people listen to our music they hear the reggae influence but they also hear other influences, and I think that's what makes Rebelution way different from any other reggae-sounding band. We have songs that are rock-sounding or hip-hop, or even pop—on the last album we have a few songs that sound more RnB to me or even ones that have a jazz sounding progression. I think there's a misconception that all reggae music sounds the same. Although I find that to be untrue, I do think that Rebelution is a great way for people to maybe get into reggae music and then go from there.

Would you say you feel different energies in different parts of the country?

Yes, absolutely. I'm all about people expressing themselves however they want to in the crowd. I think that when we're in California people are pretty mellow, it's not that they aren't feeling the music, I just think that the East Coast has a different way of expressing themselves—which we love. It makes every show a little bit different. But a long time ago I learned to never judge a crowd by the way they are moving. Me, when I go and see a show, I'm not moving that much but I am soaking it in.

What would you tell people to expect when they attend a Rebelution concert?

It's definitely a big sing-a-long, we have some really dedicated fans. After 15 years of being a band, people know the words to everything—it's kind of hard to believe. That never gets old to me, hearing the crowd sing back. I think when people come for the first time, they have no idea about the scene. Back in the day, there was no festival for the American reggae-inspired kind of theme, now there are about ten to fifteen of them just dedicated to this movement. So I think some people must just think "Wow, I never even knew this existed." I think it's cool for them to hear the interaction between the crowd and the artists.

Everything you need to know about Evil Genius Shark Week this Saturday. The beer is aptly named after the viral "Baby Shark Dance" song and video that has more than 3 billion views on YouTube. Though the brewery anticipates that their customers are excited for Shark Week, going all-out for the occasion is a product of their genuine enthusiasm.

"Evil Genius loves sharks — especially the celebrity and guest of honor, Baby Shark," said Evil Genius partner Trevor Hayward in a press release. "This fits right in our wheelhouse for using our creative juices and getting crazy around a fun theme and narrative."

Shark Week is even more exciting (or terrifying) for East Coast residents this year. Footage of a great white shark following a fish boat and chomping the boat's bait bag off the coast of Manasquan, N.J., alarmed some beachgoers. But don't worry, even with increased shark sightings off the East Coast, experts say there's no need to worry about sharks while enjoying your trips to the Jersey Shore. Or, play it safe and celebrate in Philly with a few beers.

All week
Sip on the "Baby Shark" Mosaic Pale Ale (4.4 percent ABV) while enjoying a variety of feature films and shows at Evil Genius's tasting room, The Lab (1727 N. Front St.), from July 28 to Aug. 4. Screenings will include the classic "Jaws," as well as "Finding Nemo" and select Shark Week shows.

"Shark Week Jeopardy"
Stay sharp and show off your shark knowledge during "Shark Week Jeopardy" at The Lab on Aug. 1. There will be prizes, so come prepared. The themed game will have six question categories related to sharks.

Nancy Pearl with her "Librarian" action figure. The 74-years-old was named a Librarian of the Year in 2011 by the prestigious Library Journal. PROVIDED

A life without reading is not life at all' NANCY PEARL

The American librarian, immortalized in an action figure, gave Metro some tips on how to experience reading with passion.

How did your passion for books start?

It started when I was a very young girl, in a public library of Detroit, Michigan. My parents were great readers and they took me there quite often. And I liked it because a librarian showed me books from all over the world. My family was not the happiest one, so that place became my new home.

Do you think new generations have lost that fascination with books?

I do not think so. I feel that all children can love books. But what is the key to that? Well, whether parents or librarians should help children find that book that makes them readers. Giving a child their first book is very important, it is a very personal gift. Reading changes lives.

How to find that book in tech era?

To turn children into readers, you have to talk. As simple as it may seem, it is also essential to listen and understand what they love to do. Discover if they like to build things or if they dream of traveling to other countries. Then you can just do the research. Regarding technology, I don't think it has to be dissociated from reading; it can enhance the experience in incredible ways. In the end, children become readers following parents. If a child receives a book from an important adult, that converts reading into something unique.

What is the role of a librarian?

I once heard a very nice and correct definition of our profession: "A librarian may not have all the answers, but he knows where to find them."

With the tsunami of information that the internet brought, the profession of a librarian has certainly transformed. But in essence it has maintained the same: being an information professional and making the access to that information easy for everyone.

You are the only librarian in the world with their own action figure. Tell more about it.

This figure is the third version of the doll; the first one appeared in 2003. It all started when the head of the Seattle company Accoutrements had a dinner with my husband and myself, and told us about all the action figures he planned to create.

Someone suggested making one of a librarian and make me the model. The first version even had a button that made the figure move its hand, as if it was asking others to be quiet [laughs]. It was there until this version.

How to tackle the lack-of-reading problem?

Many times it is said in schools, "You have to read this book and that one, because they are classics." But is it really what should be done? What we should be teaching is the love for books and reading. As I said, help children find their perfect book, make them see themselves on the pages. And what I say for children also works for adults. Sometimes reading is not perceived as something striking, but a life without it is not life at all. JOSE BARRETO MWN

PA sports betting about to enter boom period

The industry is set to explode once football returns.

MATT BURKE

Matt Burke is a veteran sports journalist and the Founder and Editor in Chief of MetroBet.

The first Sunday of the NFL season is always like Christmas Day in Philadelphia, but this year the giddiness will climb to a whole new level with the advent of legal online sports betting in Pennsylvania.

SugarHouse, Parx, Bet Rivers and FanDuel are now all up and running online and they will be joined by Harrah's Philadelphia next month. All of the online books are anticipating a monumental boom period once the NFL and college football seasons begin.

"It's always been about that magical date of getting things up and running before football season, so we expect to launch online sometime in August," said Harrah's Philadelphia Senior Vice President and General Manager Chris Albrecht in an exclusive one-on-one with MetroBet last week at Philadelphia Business Journal's Business of Sports Conference last Thursday at SugarHouse Casino. "Everything's been going great so far [with the brick-and-mortar sportsbook], we opened earlier this year and we're really excited to get into our first football season to really see what the sportsbook can become for us."

Albrecht told MetroBet that Harrah's, which is operated by Caesars Entertainment, will be rolling out a boatload of new promotions centered around the start of the NFL season.

"We're about to enter the biggest time of our year," Albrecht told MetroBet. "We're in 'idea mode' right now so we'll be looking to launch those promotions within the next month or so. We'll leverage other assets in our building, too. We have a beer garden downstairs, we have restaurants, and we want to be able to tie those in with the betting going on in the sportsbook [called The Book] once we have online and new kiosks around the building, to kind of bring it all together ahead of football season."

Concerns for sportsbook heads have been whether or not the traffic to their retail sportsbooks will dip once online is fully up and running, and will the increased competition be a problem? But Albrecht sees it more as a "rising tide lifts all boats" scenario.

"Right now it just looks like it's all going to continue to grow, and as we've seen with New Jersey already, it's not like it's cutting into Nevada's business, either," Albrecht told MetroBet. "It's just growing in a whole new market. Maybe some of these states that abut each other might cut into one another a little bit, so it will be interesting to see how much Pennsylvania and New Jersey cut into one another. But I think for a few years we'll all just be in growth mode."

Best Bets

College football betting: Ride Michigan

The Michigan Wolverines needed to shake things up on offense after ranking 50th in yards per game a year ago and getting trounced in the Peach Bowl, 41-15, by Florida. Enter Josh Gattis, a highly respected WR coach who's groomed the likes of 2011 consensus All-American Jordan White (Western Michigan), two-time first-team All-SEC wide-out Jordan

Matthews (Vanderbilt), and 2018 Biletnikoff Award winner Jerry Jeudy (Alabama). He'll be introducing the spread, among other things, to the Shea Patterson-led attack.

The greatest source of strength for Jim Harbaugh's Wolverines might be their offensive line, which returns four of five starters from a year ago. That will be a tremendous boon to whichever RB takes the reins from departing starter Karan Higdon. Michigan also had the best defense in the country last year at 263 yards allowed per game and returns eight starters.

The Wolverines drew a highly favorable schedule with just one tough road game, at Penn State, as well.

The play: Michigan Over 10 wins (-118)

Phils can't be fixed by deadline

A rough series against the Braves proved the Phillies aren't ready to contend yet.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

If this weekend taught the Philadelphia Phillies anything, it's that their problems can't be solved within a single trade deadline.

Or maybe even two, for that matter.

A dreadful effort against the Atlanta Braves in Philadelphia further highlighted the team's disarray on the pitcher's mound. The first two games saw the Phillies allow a whopping 24 runs combined.

The injured Jake Arrieta held on for as long as he could on Friday night, holding the Braves to a single run in four innings before the floodgates opened in the fifth.

It's certainly unfair to pile on Arrieta, who is pitching with a sizable bone spur in his pitching elbow. Surgery is going to be an option at some point, whether that's this summer or at the end of the year.

Still, it's further frustration heaped on a former Cy Young Award winner who has yet to reach his potential since coming over from the Chicago Cubs.

Zach Eflin and his "heavy body" couldn't make it out of the second inning on Saturday night as he and Ranger Suarez — with the help from some of the team's atrocious defense — allowed 11 runs before recording six outs.

Had the Phillies swept this series, they would have been a slim 2.5 games back of first two days before August. Quite a reasonable deficit to overcome.

Instead, the Braves single-handedly muted General Manager Matt Klentak's expectations heading toward the vastly-approaching trade deadline.

Is it worth breaking the bank (again) on the market for a chance at the National League Wild Card Game? And then to get buzzed down by the powerhouse Los Angeles Dodgers in the NLDS, should they make it out of the one-game playoff?

The Phillies' starting rotation is in shambles behind Aaron Nola. It's to the point where one could make an argument that Klentak should go out and get four new arms this off-season.

Eflin, whose ERA was at 2.83 as recent as June 19, has a 10.65 ERA in his last six starts. He's allowed at least six runs in four of those outings.

While his demise has been swift, it's been apparent for some time that Nick Pivetta, Vince Velasquez and the injured Jerad Eickhoff don't contribute much, either.

If only the problems ended there.

The Phillies' bullpen has a 4.75 ERA this season, ranked 22nd in the majors, suggesting it needs plenty of help. And it might, but it will be an entirely different-looking unit once the likes of David Robertson and Seranthony Dominguez return — whenever that might be.

Offensively, Klentak flashed plenty of cash to build the starting lineup into an imposing-looking unit on paper during the offseason. But the season-ending injury to Andrew McCutchen further stressed the lack of depth off the bench.

Add another few bats to Klentak's wish list.

So, to summarize, the Phillies need multiple starters, at least one or two more relievers, and a couple of competent bats.

That's too much to address in just a few days.

INTENSE ITCHING with PRURIGO NODULARIS?
